The Farah Palmer Cup is also expected to kick off next week with North Harbour and The Counties of Manukau due to the hosting matches in Auckland, with NZR promising a new timely update on fixtures New Zealand's delayed coronavirus North v South Island rugby will now take place in Wellington without spectators, having been delayed until 5 September. We are delighted that the game can be played in Wellington, but it's a pity it will have to be played without supporters in the New Zealand Rugby's Chris Lendrum said in a statement wednesday. The highly anticipated match, scheduled for August 29 at Auckland's Eden Park, promises a tantalizing showcase of talent for new All Blacks coach Ian Foster.When the virus reappeared in Auckland and forced the city to lock down, rugby bosses considered changing the Wellington venue.But this plan was left in disarray when 14 Auckland-based players and five support staff members were banned from leaving the City. The teams plan to meet in Wellington on Monday, a day after the closure of Auckland is currently expected to end. The North-South match was first played in 1897 and was once among the most hard-fought matches in New Zealand's rugby calendar. It fell out of disgapping after the advent of professionalism in 1995, but returns this year after New Zealand's home test schedule was thrown into disarray by the coronavirus pandemic. Foster, who helped select the teams, called the match a match once in a generation. Crusaders lock Sam Whitelock has been named captain of Team South, with blues lockman Patrick Tuipulotu leading the North. Getty Images There is a quick turnaround toward the start of the 2020-21 college football season in the wake of the college football playoff field announcement sunday. The first Myrtle Beach Bowl will be held Monday afternoon at Brooks Stadium in Conway, South Carolina. The North Texas Mean Green will face the Appalachians in a battle between the enemies of the USA Conference and the Sun Belt Conference. The Green and Green has faced a tumultuous schedule this year, playing only nine games in total and finishing with a 4-5 record. Appalachian State, meanwhile, played 11 and continued to be one of the best teams in the solar belt with an 8-3 record. It is also the first meeting between the two programs. So who wins this showdown in South Carolina? Let's take a closer look at the stories to follow as well as the matches to watch before making some expert choices both straight and against the spread. Storylines North Texas: The Mean Green didn't exactly have a smooth season. In addition to the mass layoff from October 17 to November 21, they were blown away by Charlotte and UTSA. They had a large weapon in the knife of the Swiss army Jaelon Darden. The 5-foot-9 speedster had 74 catches for 1,190 yards and 10 touchdowns. He is one of the most dangerous players in the country, but will not play on Monday afternoon. Appalachian State: The rushing average green defense is catastrophic, and the climbers have been impressive on the ground. Four different climbers rushed for 400 yards or more in the regular season, including Cameron Peoples, who has 807 yards and seven touchdowns. If you're looking for the reason why this line is so great, that's it. Date of posting of the information: Monday, December 21 Time: 14:30 p.m. ETLocation: Brooks Stadium -- Conway, South CarolinaTV: ESPN Live stream: fuboTV (Try for free) North North Appalachian State prediction prediction vs. Appalachian: Give me Appalachia State to win, but three touchdowns are too much to feel safe in a game that should be a high scoring deal. Darden's absence will come back to bite the Mean Green late, but there is still enough offensive juice to keep him close (ish). Make no mistake, mountaineers won't have to worry about much. But the Mean Green will have at least a chance in the second half (even if it's one of those Lloyd Christmases in Dumb and Dumber so you tell me there's a chance opportunities). Pick: North Texas (-21) So who wins Appalachian State vs. North Texas in the Myrtle Beach Bowl? And which side of the gap is cashing in well over 50 percent of simulations?
